

A dendrogram titled "Paratope Sequence Identity Clustermap" showing the hierarchical clustering of sequences based on their identity. The x-axis represents individual sequences, and the y-axis represents the identity percentage. The tree structure indicates that sequences are grouped into clusters based on their similarity, with the most similar sequences joining first at the bottom and more dissimilar ones joining higher up. The title is centered at the top of the plot area.

